

Accessing Magazines and Newspapers Through Vermont Online Library

Vermont Online Library provides access to a number of magazine and newspaper databases. For many popular publications, you can access articles online the same day that they're published. For others, you may only be able to access older articles. Click here to get started.

Using the search bar on the homepage, you can search all magazines, journals, and newspapers by topic. However, it can be difficult to access specific magazines and newspapers this way. To find a specific publication, first scroll down.

Once you're in the database, you can use the search bar to conduct a general keyword search. This will be most useful if you're looking for articles on a specific topic from any newspaper. If you'd like to find a specific newspaper, click on "Publication Search."

The screenshot shows the Gale OneFile News homepage. At the top left is the Gale logo. The main header reads "GALE ONEFILE News". Below this is a search bar with the placeholder text "Search..." and a magnifying glass icon. A red arrow points to the search bar with the text "Keyword search". Below the search bar is a link for "Advanced Search". In the top right corner, there is a logo for "Vermont Online Library". A navigation bar contains icons for "Title List", "Search History", "Get Link", and "Highlights And Notes". Below the navigation bar is a "SEARCH TOOLS" section. It features three tool cards: "Topic Finder" (with a pie chart icon), "Subject Guide Search" (with a list icon), and "Publication Search" (with a newspaper icon). The "Publication Search" card is circled with a red dashed line, and a red arrow points to it with the text "Find newspapers". Each tool card includes a brief description and a "Go to" link.

On the newspaper's main page, you'll see the database's coverage of the newspaper. Look at the full-text coverage dates. If you're looking for an article that falls within the listed date range, you should be able to find it in the database. If you know the date of the article you're looking for or want to browse articles from a certain issue of the paper, select the date you're looking for. (You may need to change the year first.) Alternately, you can search by keyword in the "search within publication" box. Any search here will only return results from the paper you're looking at.
